

Rooming-in crib Malvestio Matris 332300

Being close to the new-born is important in order to reassure them, make them feel protected and to convey the love of the mother. For new-born babies it is important to be able to recognize their mother, to watch her, to listen to her voice and feed from her. The Matris crib meets these needs, making it possible to be placed in complete safety close to any type of bed manufactured by Malvestio or by others. The new-born is protected in their own space and the mother can move around and sleep without fear of harming the baby

The Matris cot answers this need, it can be safely placed next to (left or right) any type of bed from Malvestio or other manufacturers. The baby is protected and the mother can move and sleep without fear of harm to her baby. Sleeping together stimulates the bond between parent and child and regulates the baby's breathing and heartbeat.
